High School Team To Again Hit The Ice Lanes

For the first time in nine years the high school hockey team has appeared to the public for support in the purchase of new uniforms. This appeal has met with splendid response and the newly re-organized team, to be known as Didsbury High School Royals, will shortly appear in their new finery at the local arena.

This team replaces the High School Beavers of past fame. The Beaver uniforms finally were out but their traditions will be carried on under the coaching of Mr. Ralph Scarlett, physical education teacher at the local high school.

In next week's issue of The Pioneer we hope to show you this year's line-up and we will also mention the local businessmen and farmers who have so generously contributed to the purchase of new uniforms.

The boys would like to say "thank you" to all who have contributed. Come to the arena on Thursday, Jan. 17 and see the team in its first game against the Olds High School.

Chitter-Chatter

By Our High School Scribbler

The five students who represented the Didsbury Inter-School Christian Fellowship group at the Banff Christmas Ski Club, came home full of enthusiasm.

The three days were spent swimming, bowling, hiking, sight-seeing, skating and skiing. At the camp was an expert ski instructor for all greenhorns who had never before gotten past the tobogganing stage.

Accommodation for the 80 leaders and campers was in the Banff School of Fine Arts. All transportation was by school bus.

We hope that more members of Didsbury High will join in the fun next Christmas.

Ramblers Tie Carstairs 4-4

DIDSBURY 4 — CARSTAIRS 4 Sub-zero weather didn't stop Carstairs and Didsbury, entries in the Chinook Hockey League from going all out in a scheduled game at the southern centre Tuesday night.

The home team lead 1-0 at the end of the first frame but the locals came to life in the second and took a 3-1 bulge. However, there was still one period to go and when the smoke cleared the scoreboard read 4-4, a fair indication of the play. Irwin scored twice for Didsbury, with singletons to Miller and Neufeld; assists were picked up by McCoy, Shantz, Neufeld and Robertson.

TROCHU 2 — DIDSBURY 1

Saturday night the locals lost another squeaker when Trochu skated off with a 2-1 victory. The game was a penalty-studded affair with 16 waves of the hand by officials.

Francis, with an assist from Devine, scored the lone goal for Ramblers.

CARSTAIRS 3 — DIDSBURY 2

Playing on local ice Jan. 3rd, Didsbury dropped a 3-2 decision to Carstairs in a game which saw the visitors' goalie having one of his better nights. Robertson and Devine tallied for Didsbury with the same two players picking up helpers.

The lineup of those playing most games with the Ramblers, all local lads, include: Art Jackson, goal; S. Jackson, A. Neufeld, J. Post, H. Robertson, D. Irwin, M. McCoy, L. Neufeld, B. Neufeld, C. Miller, C. Morris, L. Devine, J. Bain, B. Francis, B. Jackson and Wayne Shantz.

Not only did the camp offer the usual fun and adventure but it afforded the boys good opportunity to lay up credits for badges, such as winter campers, camp cook, campers, etc. And as in all such camps, in putting himself against the Canadian winter, as mild as it was, and learning to fend for himself, the boy who attended learned a little more about the important business of "growing up."

Among those who attended camp were patrol leaders Wayne Stauffer, Virgil Stauffer and Glen Eby, Scouts, Arnold Eby, Gordon Cable, George Crawford, Lloyd Eby, Brian Shantz, Dennis Brado, Ted Venstra, Peter Stogemeier, Brian W. and Wayne Heulka; assistant Scoutmaster Ray Stauffer; Scoutmaster Peter Stauffer.

December Honors

Mrs. Beverly Wiggins Wilson, a Didsbury bride, was the recipient of many lovely gifts at a miscellaneous shower held in her honor in Knox United Church, Saturday evening, Jan. 5. Assisting the bride were Miss Donna Wiggins, Miss Lorna Wiggins and Mrs. Marion Wilson.

Seated at the head table, centred with wedding cake, were Mrs. E. T. Wiggins and Mrs. W. J. Wilson, who assisted in pouring tea.

Sound words of advice were given the new bride in well chosen words by Mrs. Hazel Youngs. Miss Bonnie Clarke favored the bride with her rendition of "Bless This House."

Scouts Enjoy Winter Camp

If there is such a thing as "hitting the jackpot" on a Scout camp, the 2nd Didsbury Troop scored a bullseye. Winter camps hardly ever come equipped with soft Springs breezes, pre-cut spruce bows and free potatoes. But all these and a lot more was the camping fare for 13 Scouts, an assistant Scoutmaster and a Scoutmaster.

If the exceptionally mild weather reduced 15 fearless arctic explorers to 16 ordinary campers no one heard any complaint.

Naturally a lot of fun went into preparing for the camp, but much more fun was enjoyed when the camp was actually begun. The troop located themselves on the property of Mr. Davidson, on the bank of the Fallen Timber river, not too far from the Bergen store. The land-owner had felled a small berth of spruce, limbed the tree, all in readiness for the boys to build four very fine spruce shelters and make enough spruce bow mattresses to accommodate them all. There they camped for three days, Dec. 27 to Dec. 29.

The highlight of their culinary endeavors was the roasting of chickens. These were skinned, wrapped well in aluminum foil and slowly roasted. With the exception of one small fowl the chickens were served succulent and tender.

Another interesting feature to the old Scouts was the initiating of five Tenderfoots to the many experiences of winter, camping. The younger boys are to be commended on their enthusiasm to tackle the adventure. And whilst at camp each boy was given the opportunity to learn and to do whatever was required of them. The beginners who won their "spurs" were Brian Shantz, Dennis Brado, Ted Venstra, Wayne Heulka and Brian Will.

This Hunting Madness . .

By Madeline A. Johnson

The hunter is a peculiar type of the human male which emerges for one short period out of every year. There is no physical characteristic marking the transformation. It appears in all age groups from the teens up and in all walks of life. Any resemblance of the hunter to the husband, father, son, brother or sweetheart is purely coincidental.

Every morning for 10 months out of each year, the male has a natural immunity to alarm clocks, dutiful wives or mothers. He never hears noises in the basement, the cat wanting in or out or the two a.m. cry from across the hall for a drink of water. Normally, too, the list of household tasks requiring male attention grows like a bad weed. The jobs must wait until there is some free time, or until the washing machine actually falls apart, and there is no clean shirt. The family is almost convinced that the bread-winner is indispensable to his job — until the hunting season rolls around.

All at once there is time enough to shop for shells, to set traps, decoys and arrange scouting trips. Nothing is left undone that might assure a good shoot.

On the first of the season, even before the alarm rings 2:00 a.m. this odd creature known as the hunter is out of bed in a twinkling, wide awake and ready to go. He can even cook himself an elaborate breakfast while shaving. At no other period in the adult male's life is he quite so efficient.

Of all the game birds, hunted in Alberta, the goose puts the hunter's skill to the greatest test and provides the biggest thrill. There's more truth than fiction in the saying, "On a wild goose chase." This particular fowl is a clever, cunning creature which usually flies well out of firing range. The hunter must lay careful plans and conscientiously scout the terrain beforehand.

The business of spotting begins in the early morning hours, usually on a Sunday. Carloads of hunters are seen streaming over country roads and fields. All eyes are turned skyward. A flock is sighted; the chase is on. Binoculars bring the beautiful birds seemingly within arm's reach. When they have determined on a likely feeding spot, the lead bird brings his flock down; the hunter patiently watches while the geese dine. After satisfying their hunger, they wing away to some unknown rendezvous.

After gaining the farmer's permission to shoot on his land, the hunter returns that same afternoon to the same spot. He hopes the geese will do likewise. Often the birds fail to show up for an evening feed, in which case the hunter must chance the birds' return next morning, or arrange another shoot.

Two o'clock the next morning finds the hunter setting out again. This time he has added to his equipment a shovel for digging pits and a piece of chicken wire for the snare. In the cold dreary hours, he feverishly piles his digging tool, sets decoys in place, arranges signals with fellow hunters and camouflages the surroundings around. He then wedges himself into the dank hole, and slides the cover over. A steady trickle of straw greets each upward gaze. Eyes smarting from the falling particles and neck stiffening, he shivers the moments away. He has eaten all his mud-covered sandwiches and is miserably cold and cramped, but the hunter is a man of patience and stamina.

At the more conventional breakfast hour the goose appears. The unsuspecting flock descends. As they fly within firing range, a series of shots shatters the silence. The hunter's flock takes flight, leaving a few of their mates behind. If the hunter should be a good shot, and quick, he may be fortunate enough to down two or three birds.

The earlier misery of waiting is forgotten as the hunter retrieves his prize, fills in his pit, collects equipment and hurries home. He manfully relates the day's adventures. He talks shop incessantly with others of his kind.

As the delicious aroma of roast wild goose tingles the nostrils, the hunter's eccentricities are forgotten and forgiven, until the next time.

DIFFERENT DIFFERENCE

The judge looked at the defendant. "You are charged with forgery, Mr. Yakita; how do you plead?"

"Not guilty, your honor; you know as well as I do that I can't write my own name."

"May I remind you, sir?" said the judge, "you are not here for writing your own name."

★ ACCORDING TO SCRIPTURE

A Padre parked his car in the "No Parking" zone and left a note on his windshield which read: "I drove around the town for 15 minutes and couldn't find a legal parking spot. Forgive Us Our Trespasses."

The policeman, after reading the Padre's note, placed a ticket on the windshield and wrote, "I've been patrolling this town for 15 years and I wouldn't feel justified in not giving you this ticket. Lead Us Not Into Temptation."

GRIN AN SHARE IT

"I shall put you fellows in this room," said the host. "You'll have a comfortable night since it has a feather bed."

At 2:00 o'clock in the morning one of the guests awoke his companion. "Change places with me, Dick," he groaned. "It's my turn to be on the feather."

AN OLD PROVERB QUESTIONED

According to an old proverb, an elephant never forgets. Which makes one wonder what an elephant has that's worth remembering.

YOU NAMED IT !!

Two big-shot sportsmen found themselves stranded in a small town which had only one small, dilapidated hotel. One of them looked around dully and asked the clerk: "What do you charge for room in this place you call a hotel?"

"They're very reasonable, sir," said the clerk. "For one pig, two dollars; for two pigs, three dollars."

NEWSPRINT PRICE STILL IN THE UPSWING

Newsprint — the paper on which newspapers are printed — seems headed for a new record price.

bitby Power and Paper Company, one of Canada's big producers, said last week an increase of $4 per ton will go into effect March 1. It is the second increase within a year. And you wonder why the newspaper "joes" are casting remarks in print about the increased cost of production? Those invoices don't lie.

The large envelope duly arrived and was opened in great excitement. Inside were several proofs of a baby lying on a rug, and on the back they read: "Please state clearly which size you want . . . and how many."

It takes money to make good gasoline

Gasoline quality has risen tremendously in the past few years. Two gallons of today's gasoline do the work of three in the '20s.

Finding new techniques to make these improved gasolines, and new equipment to put these techniques to work, has cost a lot of money.

Imperial, with by far Canada's most extensive oil research facilities, has spent 20 million dollars over the past ten years on research alone.

Imperial spent 65 million in the same period directly on new equipment to improve gasoline quality.

It's costing more and more money to make the gasolines required by today's more powerful cars.

CAN YOU THINK OF ANY ONE

BRANCH of a department in your government that makes sure the cleanliness of the cafe or restaurant you frequent is maintained to a definite health standard; that the garbage disposal field in your community is located properly and maintained adequately; that makes sure the proposed site of any new hospital is suitable; that inspects slaughter houses; and examines all waterworks and sewage line, and disposal areas, as well as myriad other aspects of municipal health devices?

CALGARY RESIDENTIAL DISTRICT

THE SANITARY ENGINEERING

BRANCH of the Department of Health is the organization on which depends, to a tremendous degree, your health and that of your family and neighbors. The inspectors of the branch ensure your dairy delivers pure milk; their engineers save municipalities thousands of dollars and possibly scores of lives by recommending and stipulating when they install water utilities.

THE FACT THEY ARE SO LITTLE

KNOWN and their duties receive such little publicity is a comforting assurance the branch is doing its job quietly and efficiently. You and your family are the ones who benefit.

THE DEPARTMENT OF

HEALTH'S ACTIVITIES cover much ground. Today there is ready recognition of the requirements of mental health and one of the means by which this objective is being maintained is through the Guidance Clinics. One each is operated full time at Edmonton, Calgary and others part time at smaller Alberta communities.

AT THE CLINICS, a staff skilled in child guidance evaluates the emotional disturbance of youngsters who are referred to them, diagnoses their probable cause and suggests remedial action. More than 3,000 people were treated last year and the number grows each year. Those who are treated are almost always improved in their adjustment to their environment. So, they lead happier lives.

Time Now To Think About . . .

The favorite winter sports in these parts. Curlers have got their matched rocks in action and the square draw is off to a good start. Annual bonspiel starts on January 14, that's next Monday. Hockey is very much in the picture, with local teams vying for positions in different leagues. Our favorites, the Ramblers, have been blowing hot and cold to date, but promise to end up in a playoff spot.

Time Now To Think About . . .

Another close check on the speedways in town, we refer to the roads, and even sidewalks. Sunday seems to be the day the heavy-footed characters try to main themselves or some other unsuspecting person. The slippery conditions that exist now, and with shinny games and children skating and playing with sleighs on the roads, the practice is just that much more dangerous. Slow down fellas, someone's going to get hurt.

Time Now To Think About . . .

The rest room project — the holidays are over and we're all on a routine course again — let's get crackin' on this important deal. Mountain View W.I. is the last big contributor we've heard of . . . $50 toward the plan.

Time Now To Think About . . .

That light-up campaign we hinted about a few times before the Yule season. 'Twas a fine effort on the whole and very favorably commented on by many visitors to town. We liked ours so well we haven't taken the decorations down yet.

Time Now To Think About . . .

The meeting to be held Friday night to form a Community Chest organization. All groups and the many organizations within the district are asked to send representatives to Friday's meeting. The idea, of course, is to do away with separate canvasses for different causes and throw all the effort into one campaign — it's worked everywhere else, why not here?

Time Now To Think About . . .

The learned gentleman who penned the following words: "Things cannot always go your way. Learn to accept in silence the minor aggravations, cultivate the gift of tactiturnity and consume your own smoke with an extra draught of hard work, so that those about you may not be annoyed with the dust and soot of your many complaints.

MORE 1000 BAIT STATIONS: Since my letter of last week we have set out four more bait stations. Following is a list of their locations: S.S. 9, 29, 2, 5; S.W. 8, 29, 3, 5; N.E. 11, 29, 5, 5; S.W. 35, 33, 7, 5. Study these locations and if any one is in your locality be careful to keep any dogs away from them. Each site is one mile or more from habitation but you might accidentally roam the vicinity with a dog and it might be attracted to the meat unless you give the location a wide berth.

I understand that this coyote destruction program does not please some of the coyote hunters in the towns who like to go out of an afternoon to shoot the coyotes for sport. It seems that they think the farmer should continue to feed the coyotes with their live turkeys, chicken, sheep, calves, etc. so that hunting will continue to be provided for them at their leisure. However, the farmers who have been suffering from these coyote depredations think differently. Numbers of them have suffered many dollars worth of loss; are justified in taking the necessary precautions to ensure that these losses to their flocks are stopped.

We are not out to completely eliminate the coyote. I think that would be impossible with the foothills and mountains as a natural breeding ground. However, we are interested in reducing coyote population and thereby reduce or eliminate losses being sustained by poultry and stockbreeders.

TOUGH . . . BUT YES!

Think your boss is tough? Here's one that's even tougher. One of his staff crept into his office timidly one morning and said:

"Sir, may I have next Tuesday off? It's my silver anniversary and Maggie and I want to celebrate."

"Fine thing," snarled the boss. "That's what I call real devotion to your job. And I suppose I'll have to put up with this sort of thing every 25 years."

DISTRICT PIONEER DISPLAYS ART WORK

In Coste House, Calgary, an interesting art collection is on display. It includes oils and pastels done by Mrs. Winchell, 90-year-old Water Valley district old timer. One of the pictures of interest is "The Stag", for which Mrs. Winchell received second prize in the Dominion Exhibition in Calgary in 1908. Another is one of Calgary as it was in 1875. Mrs. Winchell copied this from a small picture done by an old trader. This is of special interest as it was painted only last year. "The Impulse" and "The Forest Fire" are oil paintings originals which were painted in oils at least 80 years ago. Mrs. Winchell is one of the Water Valley district's oldest residents. She came with her husband and family to her present home in 1904. Her welcome mat is always out and her hospitality of the best. She and her husband have many friends, as do all 17 grandchildren, 21 great-grandchildren and three great-grandchildren.

CANADA HAS MOST VALUABLE DOLLAR

Canada has the most valuable money in the world. It recently received a 23-year premium record over the United States dollar. This may be a matter of pride and satisfaction to Canadian financiers but it is no boon to those who must sell their products abroad.

On every dollar's purchase of Canadian goods sold abroad, the purchaser must pay 4 cents extra or the Canadian seller take that much less. For the Wheat Board to sell one dollar's worth of grain on the export market all it can realize for the farmer is 96 or 97 cents in Canadian funds.

In spite of the high value of Canadian money in relation to other currencies it is ironic that so far as the consumer is concerned it was never worth less. Inflation has reduced his purchasing power to less than half of what it was before World War II.

TWO-MINUTE TOPIC ...
YOUR LUCKY STAR

I walked along to a meeting the other evening with a neighbor who is a cheerful soul if ever there was one. As we hurried along the pavement, I looked up at the darkness overhead. "Not many stars tonight," said I.

"Not many," my friend agreed. "But a few — a few is better than nothing — and, of course, no matter how dark the night, there's always at any rate one star shining."

"Hmmm," I muttered. I got my chance after the meeting, however. When my neighbor and I plunged into the cold night air, fog had descended and there wasn't even one star to be seen.

I told him so. "You said there's always at any rate one star shining," said I. "You're wrong this time."

But my neighbor chuckled. "There always is one," he replied. "Sooner or later."

And I pondered that ... reminding myself, as I am now reminding you.

When things get so black for you that there just isn't even one star shining ... hold on, stumble along, keep hoping, friend.

For, sooner or later, there'll be a star — your lucky star — in the blackest sky that ever was.

By The Way

Contributed by

REV. T. J. STANTON, M.A.

Our holidays at this time of year always remind me of a song we all know well. A lonely young man away from home on Christmas Eve, watched a father come in from work. He was touched by the welcome the laborer received. He noticed too, how the happiness about the cabin door outshone the signs of humble circumstance. The young man returned to his room in the country where he was seeking to regain his health. He picked up pen and paper, and as the tears of loneliness dropped on the page, he wrote: "Home, home, sweet sweet home, Be it ever so humble, there is no place like home."

Edith Thompson speaks of home as a walk along a country road when the day's work is done:

"In the low sunlight of the late afternoon,

Homeward at close of day,

Past little houses, under roof

Trees glimmering smile.

With blue smoke dangling from Each chimney tip.

Good supper smells and white

Doors waiting —

On lawns, glad dogs and children

Playing.

In swift companionship."

Robert Burns, whose birth we celebrate each January, wrote these lines:

"To make a happy fireside clime,

To weans and wife,

That's the true pathos and sublime

Of human life."

If you have not read "The Cotter's

Saturday Night" recently, this would be a splendid time to re-read it. Burns has embodied in this poem truth that will always be honored and cherished wherever true homes exist. Where this is lacking, homes dwindle and become mere stopping places.

"From scenes like these old

Scotland's grandeur springs,

That makes her joy'd at home,

reverd abroad.

Princes and Lords are but the breath of Kings,

An honest man's the noblest work of God."

There should not be, there need not be, a single dull moment in any home. It is a delight to go into a home, at the time of the evening meal, where everyone talks at once about everything. Everyone has had an experience during the day, and everyone is anxious to tell about it.

Everyone has an opinion to express, the children as well as the parents.

Where should these opinions be more welcome than at home?

To the stranger, or to those who have never enjoyed the privileges of sharing in the life of a larger family circle, all this might seem like an endless argument. However, it is nothing of the sort. It is just a case of good healthy give and take. Everyone feels free to give and everyone is willing to take, and all are happy.

There is always the hour of homework, where each helps the other.

This done there is often time to crack, corn to pop or apples to eat.

In many homes there are those delightful few minutes when all gather around the old organ, or perchance a new piano, for a singing, before mother points to the clock saying, "It's time we were all away to our rest." None want to stray away, nor stay away from home when it is like this, because they would be sure they were missing something really fine if they did.

Then too there is the family altar.

A home lacking in prayer is like a house without a roof, in which there can be neither peace, comfort

nor safety."

Notes From D.A.

By HOWARD J. FULCHER

The size of a litter of pigs which is weaned makes the difference between profit or loss to the producer. A good sized litter of thrifty pigs can be raised even in severe cold long winter if proper management practices are followed.

One common cause of losses in litter pigs is the lack of sufficient iodine in the sow's ration. When the sow does not receive enough iodine the thyroid gland is affected, litter pigs thyroid gland function before birth and they suffer accordingly.

These pigs may be born in a weak and unsatisfactory condition; they do poorly and losses are high. They may in more severe cases be born hairless, have puffy skin and enlarged throats. In all cases losses are high and profits in hog production are greatly reduced or nullified completely.

Prevention is simple. It is just supplying sufficient iodine to the pregnant sow. In some areas it is not a problem and in others the iodized salt is sufficient. In most areas of this province it must be further supplemented by feeding the sow potassium iodide.

Potassium iodide is fed by dissolving one ounce of it in one gallon of water and feeding one tablespoon of this solution per day to each sow. The solution may be made with seven ounces of potassium iodide in one gallon of water and fed at the rate of one tablespoon per week. The solution must be kept in a glass or enameled container.

TIME TO LEAVE

Three Scotsmen went to a Sunday concert and everything was fine until the collection was about to be passed. They immediately went into a whispered conference and solved the difficulty — one fainted and the other two carried him out.

Should preach only one sermon or so a year. People are against sin anyway, so why harp on it.

Should be turned off at dangerous intersections to save electricity.
Everybody knows it's a dangerous spot and that is sufficient.

Do not need to review lessons. Tell the children just once and they'll never forget.

Stop driving up and down the highways. No need to caution drivers by patrolling highways. Drivers know the law and should obey.

That advertisements in the local paper and mail order firms that send out catalogues are wasting their money. Everyone knows what is sold in the stores in town and they'll all shop at home.

But if you are one of the foolish kind — like the Notre Dame cathedral that has stood for six centuries but still rings the bell every day to let people know it is still there — and believe in continuous, profitable advertising — then you will want to advertise in
